>  Elections were not working, so Venezuelans were voting with their feet. In advance of the July 28th election, 11 years into Nicolas Maduro's rule, almost eight million Venezuelans, a quarter of the population, had fled their country. Only Afghanistan and Syria have seen a bigger refugee exodus, with Ukraine close behind. In that time, under the Maduro regime, GDP has crashed by close to three quarters, plunging half the remaining population of the once oil-rich country into poverty. The country's sovereign and state oil company debt has soared to an unsustainable $160 billion.

"Nearly half of Venezuelans are considering leaving the country in the coming months, poll says - The possibility of Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro retaining power is motivating many Venezuelans to leave, according to a recent survey. But a new stream of Venezuelan migration could have serious consequences for Latin America, the US-Mexico border, and even the US presidential race."

They found that there were over three million excess deaths in total...that vaccinated participants were 36% more likely to suffer a serious adverse event. > 🙌 "You can shove your treaty where sun don't shine - 26 Republican governors say "We Will Not Comply with One World Control Over Health" - Hopefully this throws a serious spanner into the WHO's creepy cauldron!
(Excerpts:) "The Constitution gave only limited powers to the federal government, reserving many powers to the states. Healthcare, agriculture and education are among those powers technically reserved to the states. The current US administration initiated the effort to craft a worldwide pandemic treaty and a worldwide biosecurity agenda, which, if passed would have the effect of centralizing surveillance for potential pandemics in the WHO...to declare public health emergencies of international concern at will, and by so doing, give himself extraordinary powers to manage them, including restricting which drugs would and would not be allowed. There is no question that giving the WHO such authority over US citizens is a transfer of sovereignty to the WHO, which is not permitted by the Constitution. It also would involve the President usurping powers granted to the states, for it is the states that Constitutionally manage healthcare. (The states license doctors, nurses, and hospitals, for example.)...This statement by the 26 Republican governors comes at exactly the right time. This week, negotiations for the WHO's Pandemic Treaty begin again. This Governors' statement will probably take the air out of the meeting. Later this month, the UN seeks to have the nation states go along with a plan that would give the Secretary-General the right to declare 'global shocks' and stand up an 'emergency platform' to manage those shocks. Additionally, the UN seeks agreement with a Pact for the Future. With the US Governors stating clearly that they won't go along with 'one world control' it should have an impact on the UN's plans as well. Members of the WHO gave themselves until next May to finalize a pandemic treaty after failing to agree on one last May. This statement should be the final nail in the Pandemic Treaty's coffin.":

(Excerpted from the author's take on this order!:) "They are destroying all COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine vials so they cannot be tested for DNA contamination (or other types of contamination). The COVID-19 Vaccines are themselves evidence of a crime, and destroying evidence is a violation of the Criminal Code of Canada. If Alberta Health is involved in destroying these vaccines, then is the Alberta Minister of Health committing a violation of the Criminal Code and can she be arrested for it? Food for thought. There is another point I'd like to make. Once the evidence of the contents of all COVID-19 Vaccine vials is eliminated, it is then possible to proceed with a plan to blame all COVID-19 mRNA vaccine injuries on something else, something new. Perhaps a new pathogen. Something that may even be accompanied by lockdowns in the near term." - *The last one listed, which rings out loud and clear to me, is especially diabolical, pointing towards perpetual pernicious plans to puncture the populace with poisonous pollutants! (Excerpts:) "As The Last American Vagabond (TLAV) has previously reported, the Summit of the Future is also expected to include calls for remaking the UN into what has been called 'UN 2.0'...Ultimately, the push for an emergency platform as part of the Pact for the Future is intended to reinforce the idea that humanity is facing a Planetary Emergency which requires the UN's influence and authority to be increased. The document shies away from the term world or global government — instead preferring multilateralism or global governance — but the outcome is the same: a United Nations with more authority to act and compel nation states to comply with its edicts...Based on these previous statements from the UN and the draft of the Pact for the Future, it is clear that a resetting of the financial system is a crucial component of their plans."

(Excerpts:) "The only way for salt to lose its saltiness, from a chemical perspective, is for a chemical reaction to occur. NaCl is a very stable substance. The chemical bond is very tight. You see, sodium and chlorine are happy to become one and share their one electron. Things work out really well for them...they are like the happily married couple that just loves to be married, no matter what hits the fan. [What a beautiful parallel of being the Bride of Christ, becoming one with Him, stable on the Rock!]...for the Christian, for the salt of the earth, to lose his degree of saltiness, the Gospel would have to diluted in his life. This person is the complacent Christian, the person who does not protect the Truth of the gospel in his life from the rainfall of other ideas and ideologies...Or perhaps this Christian is a skeptic. You know, the hair splitting Christian. They say that they believe in Jesus, but they don't really want their lives to be changed...the Christ follower must ask is not necessarily, 'How does salt lose its saltiness?' Rather the question should be, 'How then can I maintain my saltiness?':
